President's Message

A blessed day!

May we always be safe and protected by God through these hard times that our country is going through; we have experienced war, typhoons and earthquakes that took lives, damaged properties and brought hardships to our fellow Filipinos. Let us also give thanks for He never fails to keep our spirits up when everything seems to fall apart.

Last Friday, we again showed unity and undying support as the Rotary Club of Sta. Rosa Centro ladies worked to facilitate our Blood Letting project held at Isuzu Philippines Corporation (IPC) in Laguna Technopark. I would like to thank Rtn. Myrna Valle for coordinating the project with IPC. We were very happy to receive about a hundred donors who generously gave their blood in the spirit of charity to help those who are in need.

I am confident that with the Centro mark of service above self, all our upcoming projects will come out successful as well. Thank you very much!

Yours in Rotary service,

First Class President Teodora "Doray" Lucero

On Jackson Five and Famlares

I don't know what it is about frustrations during the 1st two decades of one's existence. These events leave a mark in the deepest recesses of our souls, staying dormant in the next decade or two, only to resurface with a vengeance to haunt us again. It is almost as if, as kids, we would look at the then-unreachable object of desire, commit its image into our memory much like whales do, and come back for it when we are big enough to get it.

One almost ridiculous case in point was when I was 11 years old. The world-famous Jackson 5 was coming to Manila to have a concert. I yearned to see it, but knew that the concert ticket was something we couldn't possibly afford. I did not even dare ask my parents for it. Then, something short of a miracle happened. My then best friend, Marivic, was an only child; and being quite well-off, her parents not only bought tickets to bring her to the concert, they also bought one extra ticket so that I could go with them (even in those days, being a nice polite girl in front of parents pay off)!

I was so happy. No, I was ecstatic! I was going to see the Jackson 5! Marivic and I discussed and planned and daydreamed and swooned. I did not even think of any possibility that I couldn't go. Until I told my Mom about it, and she did not permit me to go. She said, and I quote, "you are too young to watch a concert. There will be plenty of chances for you to see that Jackson 5 when they come back here to have concerts".

But they never came back. And then they disbanded and only Michael was left, which was still okay, but he still didn't have a concert here. And then I forgot about it.

Fast forward to 1993 and I was 8 months heavy with child. I heard that Michael Jackson would have a concert in the Philippines. To the horror of my officemates, I was inquiring on how to get tickets. Some laughed at me. Some gave me long lectures about putting the interest and safety of my unborn child before my own stupid childhood frustrations. One or two said go for it and wished me luck. Thankfully, the concert was cancelled.

He finally had his concert here in 1996 (or was it 1997?), and I did watch it. It was okay. He looked a lot different, not even close to the cute, lovable lead of the Jackson 5 that I knew. I think he lip-synched half of the numbers, and the dance routines were not so special. But none of it mattered. What mattered was that I put a dot on that childhood frustration, and I came out of that concert smug and very happy with myself.

Through the years, several other childhood frustrations resurfaced, and somehow I found ways to put closure to them, which almost always entailed extra expense, a lot of trouble, and some help from friends and contacts. Most of the time I did not really need to do it, but I did. Because I wanted to.

A few days ago, one childhood frustration suddenly resurfaced – Famolare shoes. It was all the rage in the late 70's and early 80's, and I remembered salivating after those shoes when I was a college freshman staying in a dormitory. Famolare shoes, for those who do not know, were very comfortable-looking shoes, usually in wedge and with pretty, colorful straps. The wedge soles were made rubber, usually light brown in color, and had a patented four-wave design. It was all over Seventeen magazine (then only available at bookstores, which you can get a couple of months late; and no, there wasn't any local Seventeen magazine yet at that time), and all the cool girls in school wore them. I could have starved and saved all my allowance to get a pair, but the problem was you couldn't buy them here. Which meant that the cool girls who wore them either came from the US or had relatives in the US. Hence, the frustration.

I remembered chancing upon a small shoe store in Katipunan that sold a poor copy of the shoe, but since it somewhat looked like a Famolare, I wanted to buy a pair. I begged, cajoled and practically bullied all the income-generating members of my family to chip in so I could buy the poor copy. I finally came up with the loot, only to find out when I went back to the store that they did not have it in my size anymore, and they're not making any more of it. Grrrrrrrr.

Remembering the frustration now, I googled Famolare shoes, and to my delight it still existed! However, they don't come in those high-heeled wedge versions anymore; the four-wave rubber soles are still there, but colored black. And in lieu of the colorful straps, they had drab-looking shoe tops, in limited designs and colors. Sigh...

Should I put a dot on this frustration? The site said only US residents could order.... they are quite pricey too. Hmmm. Well, I do have a few friends who'd be happy to help me get them....

ROTARY INTERNATIONAL Updates

ROTARY LAUNCHES ITS “STRENGTHENING ROTARY” GLOBAL PUBLIC IMAGE INITIATIVE

Together with global strategic branding firm Siegel+Gale, Rotary today announced the launch of its global public image initiative “Strengthening Rotary” to enhance and amplify the volunteer service organization’s great story, visual identity and digital experience.

The global organization includes Rotary, Rotary International, The Rotary Foundation and more than 34,000 clubs worldwide. Its membership comprises neighbors, community leaders and global citizens who come together to exchange ideas and take action to improve communities around the world.

“Rotary has had a tremendous global impact over the past 100 years—including the decades-long charge to eradicate polio; however, much of the organization’s collective contributions were not being fully recognized by the public,” said Rotary International President Ron D. Burton. “So in 2011, we engaged Siegel+Gale to help us clearly communicate who we are and what we do for greater understanding, relevance and impact.”

Through extensive global research, Siegel+Gale discovered that Rotary had all the necessary strengths for greatness—it just needed to communicate its differentiated approach and impact in terms that were clear and compelling to its audiences.

“Our team worked collaboratively and tirelessly with Rotary—with input from thousands of Rotarians—to crystallize Rotary’s essence, amplify its voice, and activate its values,” said David Sreere, co-CEO and chief strategy officer of Siegel+Gale. “Rotary is a tremendously impressive global organization, and the team’s challenge was to dramatize the breadth and depth of its impact. Harnessing the power of simplicity, together we cut through the volume and complexity of the organization to present a clear, credible and compelling story.”

Working with a global steering committee, the Board of Directors of Rotary International and the Trustees of the Rotary Foundation, Siegel+Gale helped Rotary to elevate the benefit of bringing together diverse perspectives to solve problems, and, ultimately, define the type of impact Rotary creates—community impact scaled globally. The team then developed a brand architecture framework that clearly signaled how both members and non-members can engage with Rotary—join leaders, exchange ideas and take action through local and global service projects.

Save Life, Donate Blood

October 18, 2013

The Rotary Club of Sta. Rosa Centro conducted a blood letting project for the 11th time. This is in cooperation with Isuzu Philippines Corporation (IPC).

Almost a hundred IPC team members volunteered to donate their blood. After screening conducted by the Philippine National Red Cross, about 70 team members were able to donate.

The event was a huge success, many thanks to the rotarians, IPC team members, and the Philippine National Red Cross who came supported the event.

Volunteers were given a meal stub - soup, juice and boiled egg courtesy of IPC canteen; a balut and a token courtesy of Mayor Arlene Arcillas.

What each country leads the world in

Let's play a word association game.

What's the first thing that enters your mind when someone mentions the United States?

Do you think of Hollywood? New York? Obama? Obesity?

And what about the Philippines?

Are you likely to blurt out, "Disaster!" "Corruption!" "Traffic!" Or, "It's more fun!"

Well, now to the website thedoghousesdiaries.com. In their view, the United States leads in "Nobel laureates and getting killed by lawnmowers," while the Philippines is said to be known for its "social media use. (visit website for details)

Health Benefits of Lemon Water

1. Gives your immune system a boost.

Vitamin C is like our immune system's jumper cables, and lemon juice is full of it.

2. Excellent source of potassium.

As already mentioned, lemons are high in potassium, which is good for heart health, as well as brain and nerve function.

3. Aids digestion.

Lemon juice not only encourages healthy digestion by loosening toxins in your digestive tract, it helps to relieve symptoms of indigestion such as heartburn, burping, and bloating.

4. Cleanses your system.

It helps flush out the toxins in your body by enhancing enzyme function, stimulating your liver.

5. Freshens your breath.

It also helps relieve toothaches and gingivitis (say wha?). Because the citric acid can erode tooth enamel, either hold off on brushing your teeth after drinking lemon water or brush your teeth before drinking it.

6. Keeps your skin blemish-free.

The antioxidants in lemon juice help to not only decrease blemishes, but wrinkles too!

7. Helps you lose weight.

Lemons contain pectin fiber, which assists in fighting hunger cravings.

8. Reduces inflammation.

If you drink lemon water on a regular basis, it will decrease the acidity in your body, which is where disease states occur.

9. Gives you an energy boost.

Lemon juice provides your body with energy when it enters your digestive tract, and it also helps reduce anxiety and depression. (Even the scent of lemons has a calming effect on your nervous system!)

10. Helps to cut out caffeine.

I didn't believe this until I tried it, but replacing my morning coffee with a cup of hot lemon water has really done wonders! I feel refreshed, and no longer have to deal with that pesky afternoon crash. Plus, my nerves are thankful.

Family Ties

My coworker at the hotel was miserable at his job and was desperately searching for a new one.

"Why don't you work for your mother?" I suggested.

He shook his head. "I can't," he said. "Her company has a very strict policy against hiring relatives."

"Who made up that ridiculous rule?"

"My mother."
