make arrangements with another Rotarian to take your place.

We are thankful for this day that you have given us, for its blessings, its opportunities, its challenges. May we appreciate and use each day that comes to us. We pray for strength and guidance for each day as it comes, for each day's duties, for each day's problems. May we be challenged to give our best always, and may we be assured of your presence with us.

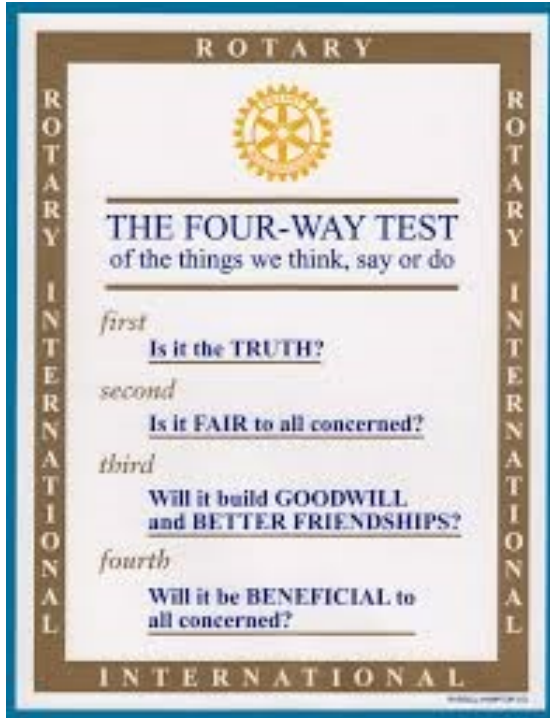

Amen

OBJECT OF ROTARY

The Object of Rotary is to encourage and foster the ideal of service as a basis of worthy enterprise and, in particular, to encourage and foster:

- FIRST: The development of acquaintance as an opportunity for service;
- SECOND: High ethical standards in business and professions; the recognition of the worthiness of all useful occupations; and the dignifying of each Rotarian's occupation as an opportunity to serve society;
- THIRD: The application of the ideal of service in each Rotarian's personal, business, and community life;
- FOURTH: The advancement of international understanding, goodwill, and peace through a world fellowship of business and professional persons united in the ideal of service.

President's Message

Dear Centronians

My term as President is truly memorable and I will treasure the memories forever. This week, Centro had the chance to be part of the show Mission Possible, a public service program of ABS-CBN which helps the needy.

We joined the shoot for the show and I was featured giving our the gifts. I was thrilled to be seen in national TV and was also thrilled to be part of a shoot. But more than everything else, what thrills me more is that Centro was able to help CJ, the kid who walks from his home to school which is located kilometers away. We were able to give CJ, his sibling and his Lola a few of the things that they need and this is what matters.

Yours in rotary service,

ROTARY INTERNATIONAL
News & UpdatesPresidential Message
February 2019Barry Rassin
President 2018-19

In my travels over the past year, I've visited many strong, vibrant clubs and districts that are transforming their communities. When I attend their meetings, I can feel the energy. When I meet their members, I can see they are people of action. And when I look at their communities, I can recognize the impact of their work.

I've also visited communities with Rotary clubs that were hardly more than social clubs. It shouldn't ever be that way. Fortunately, there's a simple approach that I believe can help revitalize any club.

I'd like to challenge every Rotary club to come up with at least one high-impact service project. Each club already has the potential, the resources, to make it happen. It has the power to change people's lives — completely.

It doesn't take millions of dollars. One of the most transformational projects I've been a part of involved providing a Jeep to a group of midwives in Haiti. We had asked the midwives what we could do for them, and they told us they needed a way to reach expectant mothers in a remote part of the country. We supplied a Jeep, painted it pink, and put the Rotary logo on it. Three years later, we went back to see how they were doing. They were excited by the outcomes: They told us that the mortality rate for mothers and infants in that region had dropped by 50 percent.

That's what I call transformational service.

But Jeeps don't last forever, and after eight years on the road, that vehicle was on its last legs. So we bought a pink Land Cruiser. It's still on the road, allowing the midwives to provide prenatal care to women in that remote region.

What makes a project transformational? It doesn't have to involve a lot of money, but it has to reach people and have a major impact in the community.

That is the key, and that is where careful planning and thorough research come in. So do your research. Leverage your resources. Seek partnerships that can increase your impact. And then take action.

Of course, service is only part of what a strong club must offer. It must also have good speakers, provide leadership development, involve Rotaract and Interact, and bring value to its members and reasons to participate in Rotary events.

If your club is transformational and well-organized, everything else will follow. Members will be engaged, and new members will be eager to join you. Fund-raising will be easier: People love to give when they see how their money is making a difference and when they know the organization is accountable. Your club will be vibrant, relevant, and alive — and it will be the Inspiration to those within its ranks as well as to the community it serves.

After the storm

A year after Hurricane Maria tore through Puerto Rico, local Rotary members continue to rebuild homes and lives.

Eladio Montalvo faced a stark choice: risk drowning in his one-story home or climb through a window into the house next door. It was under construction but had a second floor where he could escape the rising floodwaters. He boosted his dog through and scrambled in after him. The two huddled inside an upstairs bathroom for 22 hours while Hurricane Maria raged over Puerto Rico. With 155 mph winds and torrential rains, Maria was the strongest hurricane to hit the island in more than 80 years.

After the storm, Montalvo went out to see what was left of the home he had lived in since 1958. The walls were standing, but the water inside had risen chest-high. Everything was destroyed. Without any family nearby, he had nowhere to go. He moved into his car.

"But after the storm came the calm," he says. "Good people came."

Rivera greets Eladio Montalvo, who was forced to live in his car before the Mayagüez club helped him rebuild his home.

ROTARY INTERNATIONAL News & Updates

"We didn't have power back until the end of October," says Christa von Hillebrandt-Andrade, president of the Mayagüez club. "We could use one bucket of water per day. My teenage daughter learned that water is the No. 1 thing you need. She could live without electricity and even without her cellphone, but not without water."

Mayagüez is home to 75,000 people and to the island's second-oldest Rotary club after San Juan. In the past, the club carried out smaller projects, but the massive devastation caused by Maria motivated members to do more to help their neighbors, especially the very poor.

"I've been a Rotarian for 40 years, and I've never seen so much help come from other Rotary clubs," Carlo says. After Hurricane Maria, clubs across the United States wired the Rotary Club of Mayagüez about $50,000 directly; more than half of that money came from the Rotary Club of La Jolla Golden Triangle in California and a group of clubs in New York. As club treasurer, Rivera keeps track of every receipt and sends updates back to the donor clubs. A year after Maria, the club had helped 22 families repair their homes, mostly replacing roofs that were blown off by the hurricane.

And for Montalvo's part, he has remained optimistic in spite of all he went through. "Hurricane Maria gave me more than she took," he says.

Antonio Morales spreads a message of hope and resilience to at-risk youth through theater. His project, Teatro Por Amor, is now supported by a Rotary global grant. "I like coming here because it's an escape from my life," says 16-year-old Annie, above left. Student Kelvin Tirado, right, sits next to actress Anoushka Medina, who runs the Santurce Teatro Por Amor group.

Rebuilding spirits: Addressing mental health

When Ken McGrath became president of the Rotary Club of San Juan in July 2017, he thought his most arduous task would be planning the celebration of the club's centennial in 2018. Three months after he took office, Hurricane Maria hit.

"While Maria was a major disaster," McGrath says, "it had the beneficial effect of invigorating our club to show those in need the real meaning of Rotary."

By the time he was able to get an internet connection and check his email, McGrath had received 200 messages from clubs around the world offering to help. Rotarians in Puerto Rico started distributing food and water every Saturday. Working with other clubs, they coordinated the distribution of 300,000 pouches of baby food. They even put dog food out for animals that had been left behind.

Once the immediate needs were under control, they started to think about long-term relief.

"So much of the damage isn't only to the infrastructure; it's to the spirit," says John Richardson, a member of the San Juan club and a past district governor. To address mental health after the hurricane, fellow member Bob Bolte suggested the club do something unconventional: apply for a grant to support youth theater.

Bolte had met Antonio Morales in 1995 when the San Juan club installed a library in the housing project where Morales grew up. He was impressed to see that Morales, who was just 14 at the time, was running a theater group for other kids living in his tough neighborhood.

"Theater saved my life," says Morales, now a 37-year-old actor and director. "My father was a drug lord. My mother was a victim of domestic violence."

San Juan club members distribute mattresses in Villa Santo.

ROTARY CORNER

Friendship Trees

Rotarians have planted trees in the name of fellowship, friendship, and community service since the early 20th century. These trees, which can be found worldwide, have grown into enduring monuments of Rotary's ideals.

As president emeritus, Paul Harris traveled extensively during the 1920s and 1930s, often accompanied by his wife Jean. During these trips, the nature-loving Harris planted trees to symbolize goodwill and friendship.

In the Autumn of 1932 Harris embarked on a five-week tour of European Rotary clubs and planted trees along the way and recorded in his diary -

“Wednesday forenoon I planted my first tree of friendship in European soil. It seemed to me especially appropriate that it took place in Germany—in its metropolis—Berlin. The planting occurred in a sports platz formerly devoted to war purposes, and a large number including Rotarians, city officials, and others were in attendance.”

Harris also planted trees in Tallinn, Estonia, and Göteborg, Sweden, during this trip.

ROTARY CORNER

Planting trees soon became a hallmark of his travels, including in Australia, Brazil, Estonia, Japan, Mexico, and New Zealand. In My Road to Rotary Harris recalled:

“With the cooperation of Rotarians and local governments, I have planted friendship trees in the parks and playgrounds on five continents of the world and even on some of the major islands of the seas. Our trees stood as symbols of international understanding and good-will.”

Other RI presidents also observed the tradition. In 1931-32, then-RI president Sydney W. Pascall planted trees at the sites of Rotary clubs he visited, reportedly at Paul Harris’s suggestion.

Not all of the trees were planted outside the United States. The Harrises often entertained visiting Rotarians and dignitaries in their home, Comely Bank, and planted trees with their guests to mark the occasion. They called the garden their Friendship Garden.

Today, Rotarians continue to plant trees to symbolize enduring friendships and fellowship, to beautify parks and communities, and to contribute to a greener world.

In 1932 Paul Harris planted his first European Friendship Tree (Maple) on the Tempelhofer Feld in Berlin, which has been and still is an airport.

Here's What To Eat To Solve All Your Sleep Troubles

Drink milk. We've experienced the magic of milk: how it sends us to sleep. This happens because dairy products have tryptophan, an essential amino acid that promotes sleep (it's used to treat insomnia!).

Have some carbs to go with the dairy. Foods rich in carbs increase the level of the sleep-inducing tryptophan in your blood. So if you're having milk, you can have some cereal with it; if you're eating yogurt, you can have some nuts or a banana, both of which also have tryptophan.

Stop hydrating your body before you go to sleep. If you drink a lot of water before tucking yourself in, chances are you'll wake up in the middle of the night with the urge to pee, or you wake up in the morning with a really full and heavy bladder (which is really uncomfortable, BTW).

Have an orange, kiwi, or another fruit high in vitamin C. According to Keri Glassman, a nutritionist, stress also has something to do with why you can't sleep continuously. Eating something rich in vitamin C, which helps in stress reduction, can relax you enough

Reflections

“At our fireside, scores of friends from all corners of the globe have delighted us by their presence. They have come as the result of my planting a sapling in 1905. The first Rotary Club was that sapling. It has grown into a mighty tree in whose shade it is delightful to dwell.”

Paul P. Harris. My Road to Rotary, chapter 42, 1947
